Calgary couple flees sinking ship

▶ 'They've been on an emotional roller-coaster,' says son-in-law ▶ Couple expected to arrive home Monday night

KATIE TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

Calgarians Laurence and Andrea Davis were among the many aboard the Costa Concordia, a cruise ship that capsized off the coast of Italy on Jan. 13.

"They were in one of the central dining rooms when the boat hit," said the couple's son-in-law David Hornstein, adding they had to duck underneath the table when items started falling. "I think the passengers … and the crew realized something more was going on just because the ship was tilting so severely."

He said he and his wife, Leora, received a call from her parents almost immediately after the Davises had jumped ship and swum to the nearby shore.

"Once the water had reached their feet and their knees, they just decided to jump in and swim for shore."

Hornstein said it has been a stressful few days for Laurence, who recently celebrated his 60th birthday, and Andrea, who is in her early fifties. "We're just happy they're coming home."

Autopsy wraps up today

An autopsy is expected to be completed today after police found a body in southeast Calgary Saturday morning.

Police were responding to a break-in call at a home in the 100 block of Erin Circle Southeast, when the body was discovered.

Reports of shots being fired in the area around the same time are being investigated by Calgary police.

Police have said they do not believe the death to be random, and that the suspect and the victim are believed to have known each other.

If the death is determined to be a homicide, it would be Calgary's first of 2012. METRO

Visitors may boost downtown signage

City officials are hoping to make downtown navigation easier for visitors to Calgary by introducing maps and signs highlighting attractions.

Graham Gerylo, project manager with the centre city implementation team, said the $700,000 way-finding project would be helpful this year as tourists visit Calgary for centenary events such as the Stampede.

A city committee will evaluate this program on Wednesday. KATIE TURNER

Calgary woman facing blindness after trip

- Doctors believe Ashley King suffered from methanol poisoning
- Her vision began to fade after she drank tainted alcohol in September

KATIE TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

What began as an exciting trip abroad ended in near blindness for a 19-year-old Calgary woman.

After spending nine months working in Australia, Ashley King and her friend decided they would spend a month in Indonesia before travelling to New Zealand.

To commemorate her last night in Kuta, Indonesia, King went to a bar with her friends.

It wasn't until days later when she had arrived in Christchurch, New Zealand, that she went to the hospital after having difficulty breathing and fading vision.

"(The doctors) asked, 'Is there any reason there would be a high dosage of methanol in your blood?'" said King.

Doctors discovered she had received methanol poisoning from drinking liquor called Arak in Kuta, and were concerned she would not survive.

"It was the worst nightmare you could imagine," said Ashley's mom, Carolina, who rushed to New Zealand.

"I'm in a hospital with my mom and they're telling me I'm going to be blind?" King said. "I was devastated."

King has since returned to her Calgary home where her vision remains limited. She has been declared legally blind.

King said she hopes her experience serves as a warning to other travellers.

Travel warning

1. In late October, nearly two months after King was poisoned, the federal government issued a travel warning related to methanol poisoning.

2. "Canadians should be aware that scores of people, including several foreigners, have died in Bali due to methanol poisoning," reads the warning.

Occupy marks 3 months

Occupy Calgary supporters reportedly gathered once again downtown Sunday to mark the three-month anniversary since the occupation of Olympic Plaza began.

A small group of supporters were outside Banker's Hall during the afternoon.

The group began occupying Olympic Plaza on Oct. 15 following a protest, which was also held outside Banker's Hall.

Members of Occupy Calgary have said they plan to return at some point in the spring but have indicated tents won't likely be part of the next occupation.

Mom hoping for answers about son

The mother of a man missing from Edmonton since 2008 is hopeful families like hers may soon know their loved ones' fates.

Melanie Alix has been rallying her MP in Moose Jaw for a national DNA databank to store and compare the DNA of missing persons.

After hearing Friday from her MP's office, Alix is hopeful new legislation could lead to answers about her son Dylan Koshman, who's been missing since Oct. 11, 2008, when he was 21.

Every time remains are found, she wonders whether they're her son's.

"Until we have some kind of closure, we can't even grieve," said Alix. "(The databank) would mean there could be families across Canada that find their loved ones."

Winter has finally arrived, Calgary

Sub-zero temperatures and heaps of snow blast Calgary after unusually warm December Yes, it's cold, but some people are happy about it

DANI FINCH
CALGARY@METRONEWS.CA

Winter has finally hit Calgary in full force, but that doesn't mean everybody's hating on it.

Leanne Wake couldn't wait to break out her winter jacket. Originally from the United Kingdom, Wake said she looks forward to the cold and snow, something she didn't get back home.

"To me snow is a novelty," she said. "I don't do well in the mild weather."

Wake said now that the snow's hit, she's finally been able to put on her winter parka — something she thought she'd be able to do back in December.

"If you spend a lot of money on a winter jacket, you want to use it," she said.

According to Dale Oviatt of WinSport Canada, people at Canada Olympic Park (COP) have been in more of a winter spirit, too.

"People are saying they're feeling like it's winter now. They're excited," he said.

Though they make a lot of their powder with a snow machine, Oviatt said the snow has helped out hill conditions at COP, though the bitter cold weather will shut the city hill down from Monday to Wednesday this week.

"Cold weather and Mother Nature makes it easier for us," he said.

According to Environment Canada, Calgary's high will stay around the -25 mark all week, with lots of snow in the forecast.

Italy cruise ship death toll rises to 5 after divers find two more bodies

At least 15 people unaccounted for after luxury liner runs aground ◐ Captain arrested after accident

Maritime authorities, passengers and mounting evidence pointed Sunday toward the captain of a cruise liner that ran aground and capsized off the Tuscan coast, amid accusations that he abandoned ship before everyone was safely evacuated and was showing off when he steered the vessel far too close to shore.

Divers searching the murky depths of the partially submerged Costa Concordia found the bodies of two elderly men still in their life jackets, bringing the confirmed death toll to five. At least 15 people were still missing.

The recovered bodies were discovered at an emergency gathering point near the restaurant where many of the 4,200 on board were dining when the luxury liner struck rocks or a reef off the tiny island of Giglio.

Still, there were glimmers of hope with the rescue of three survivors: a young South Korean couple on their honeymoon and a crew member brought to shore in a dramatic airlift some 36 hours after the grounding late Friday.

Meanwhile, questions were raised about the captain, who was spotted by officials and passengers fleeing the scene even as the evacuation was under way. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Liberals stand by Queen, call for legalized marijuana

God save the Queen and pass the joint.

Federal Liberals have shot down a proposal calling for Canadians to consider cutting this country's ties to the monarchy. But they've thrown overwhelming support behind another calling, for the legalization and regulation of marijuana.

The proposals on the monarchy and marijuana were among a handful of controversial resolutions at the party's renewal convention.

They were put forward by the party's youth wing, which argued that the Liberal party, reduced to rubble in last May's election, needs to advance bold ideas if it is to revive.

"I think that there's a certain amount of generational change happening in the party," said Samuel Lavoie, president of the Liberal youth wing, on Sunday.

The marijuana resolution is not binding on the leader or the party. And delegates rejected a proposal to remove the leader's veto over the contents of future election platforms, so there's no guarantee the party will ever actually campaign on the idea of legalizing pot.

Party shakeup

- Delegates balked at adopting a U.S.-style primary system to elect future leaders.
- They did support reforming the country's electoral system, voting to adopt preferential balloting in federal elections, rather than the current first-past-the-post system.

Still, with 75 per cent of delegates voting for it, Lavoie predicted: "I think it is really difficult for anyone to just ignore the result and the will of the membership."

The marijuana vote followed a move late Saturday to throw open the doors of the party. After a heated debate, delegates approved a proposal to create a new class of Liberal "supporters" who will be eligible to vote for party leaders in future, along with card-carrying, fee-paying members.

Federal Liberals pick new party president

Federal Liberals selected Mike Crawley as their new party president.

On Sunday, he beat out Sheila Copps, a veteran former cabinet minister who was at one time considered the favourite to win but whom some Liberals felt symbolized the past. Crawley won the highly sought after position by a slim 26 votes.

Before he was elected as the new party president, Crawley was the head of the Liberal party's Ontario wing.

Some 3,000 federal Liberals from across Canada attended the biennial three-day convention in Ottawa to debate, among many other things, executive leaders, party resolutions and new proposals aimed at ensuring the long-term survival of the party.

PVT. DANNY CHEN'S SUICIDE

Hearing begins in abuse case

▶ Pvt. Danny Chen

A U.S. soldier charged with abuse that led to the suicide of a 19-year-old fellow soldier in Afghanistan faced a preliminary hearing on Sunday at Kandahar Air Field, the U.S. military said.

Spc. Ryan J. Offutt, 32, is charged with maltreatment, assault, involuntary manslaughter and negligent homicide in the death of Pvt. Danny Chen. Offutt is one of eight infantrymen charged in connection with the suicide.

Chen, a native New Yorker of Chinese descent, shot himself in a guardhouse on Oct. 3 in Afghanistan after what investigators say were weeks of racial slurs, humiliation and physical abuse.

After arriving in Afghanistan, investigators said, he was subjected to hazing by members of his unit, the 3rd Battalion, 21st Infantry Regiment, 1st Stryker Brigade Combat Team, 25th Infantry Division based in Fort Wainwright, Alaska.

Sunday's hearing was to determine whether Offutt should face court-martial. The two most serious charges, involuntary manslaughter and negligent homicide, carry prison sentences of up to 10 years and three years respectively.

Tanker awaits deep freeze to deliver fuel

- Nome, Alaska, facing gasoline and diesel shortage
- Once ice is stable, fuel to be transferred to village by hose from Russian tanker offshore

A Russian tanker with a cargo of much-needed fuel for Nome was moored less than a half-mile from the Alaska town's iced-in harbour Sunday morning, waiting for disturbed ice to refreeze so that crews can deliver the fuel.

The U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Healy, which cleared a path through hundreds of kilometres of Bering Sea ice for the tanker, was nearby.

"We were able to successfully navigate that last bit of ice," Coast Guard spokesman Kip Wadlow said. "We were able to get it pretty much right on the money, in the position that the industry representatives wanted to start the fuel-transfer process."

The crew of the 370-foot tanker Renda was working to ensure the safe transfer of the 4.5-million litres of fuel through a segmented hose that will be laid on top of the ice to the harbour, about 610 metres from the ship, Wadlow said on Saturday.

Once the disturbed ice has refrozen, crews must build a pathway over the ice for the hose to rest on. Then the hose segments have to be bolted together and inspected before the fuel can be released.

There has been a lot of anxious waiting since the ship left Russia in mid-December. It picked up diesel in South Korea before travelling to Dutch Harbor, Alaska, where it took on unleaded gasoline. Late Thursday, the vessels stopped offshore and began planning the transfer.

A fall storm prevented Nome from getting a fuel delivery by barge in November. Without the Renda's delivery, Nome's supplies of diesel, gasoline and home heating fuel are expected to run out in March or April.

Jason Evans, chairman of Sitnasuak Native Corp., said he hoped the crew would begin unloading Sunday.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ With Alaska's Kigluaik Mountains visible on the horizon, the Healy breaks ice for the Russian tanker Renda (not shown) near Nome on Jan. 13. Once the broken ice has refrozen, the crew will transfer some 4.5 million litres of diesel and gasoline to shore through a 1.6-kilometre-long hose, taking care not to spill a drop.

Freeze frame

- Alaska requires that fuel transfers be initiated only in daylight hours. Nome has just five hours of daylight at this time of year.
- Once the fuel hose is laid down, the crew will walk its entire length every 30 minutes to check for leaks. Each segment of hose has its own spill-containment area, and an extra-absorbent boom is on hand in case of a spill.
- But Jason Evans, chairman of Sitnasuak Native Corp., cautioned that delivering the fuel is only half the mission. "The ships need to transition back through 300 miles of ice," he said. "I say we're not done until the ships are safely back at their home ports."

Republican hopefuls slammed for speaking French, Mandarin

Mitt Romney and Jon Huntsman are getting heat from staunch Republicans, but not for their views on health care or tax reform: Romney is under fire for knowing French and Huntsman because he speaks Mandarin.

Both candidates are Mormons, and learned the languages as young men while on religious missions to France and China respectively.

In South Carolina, a pair of Newt Gingrich ads — one of them titled The French Connection — attack Romney for his facility with the language.

Romney "will say anything to win, anything, and just like John Kerry, he speaks French, too," the narrator intones menacingly as a jaunty accordion plays in the background. Romney is seen speaking French in the web spot.

Meanwhile, Huntsman's penchant for breaking into Mandarin in debates — even during campaign stops in South Carolina — has raised the hackles of some Republicans.

"You don't speak Mandarin during a Republican debate," said Joe Scarborough, former Republican congressman and now host of MSNBC's Morning Joe.

Said Michael Steele, former head of the Republican National Committee: "I thought he was ordering takeout."

A nasty web video — purportedly from a Ron Paul supporter, though the Paul campaign has vehemently denied it — also called Huntsman "the Manchurian candidate," and suggested he was a traitor for adopting a daughter from China and another from India.

Russian spacecraft crashes into Pacific

- Space probe designed to travel to Mars' twin moons
- It got stranded in Earth's orbit after Nov. 9 launch
- Efforts by Russians to bring it back to life failed

A Russian space probe designed to boost the nation's pride on a bold mission to a moon of Mars came down in flames Sunday, showering fragments into the South Pacific west of Chile's coast, officials said.

Pieces from the Phobos-Ground, which had become stuck in Earth's orbit, landed in water 1,250 kilometres west of Wellington Island in Chile's south, the Russian military Air and Space Defence Forces said in a statement.

The military space-tracking facilities were monitoring the probe's crash, said spokesman Col. Alexei Zolotukhin.

He said the deserted ocean area is where Russia guides its discarded space cargo ships serving the International Space Station.

RIA Novosti news agency, however, cited Russian ballistic experts who said the fragments fell over a broader patch of Earth's surface, spreading from the Atlantic and including Brazil.

The $170-million craft is one of the heaviest and most toxic pieces of space junk ever to crash to Earth, but space officials and experts said the risks posed by its crash were minimal because the toxic rocket fuel on board and most of the craft's structure would burn up in the atmosphere high above the ground anyway.

Space junk

- Thousands of pieces of derelict space vehicles orbit Earth, occasionally posing danger to astronauts and satellites in orbit.
- About 100 metric tonnes of space junk fall on Earth every year.
- Russia's space agency Roscosmos predicted that only between 20 to 30 fragments of the Phobos probe with a total weight of 200 kilograms would survive the re-entry and plummet to Earth.

Report clears rebels

Rwandan President Paul Kagame said Sunday he's "not very excited" by a report released by a French commission that found the missile fire that brought down the Rwandan president's plane in 1994 and sparked the country's genocide came from a military camp and not Tutsi rebels.

The findings clear several people close to Kagame, who was the leader of the Tutsi rebels at the time.

Kagame said he takes issue with the idea that Rwanda or Africa should be judged by outsiders. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stop killing your people: UN chief

Presence of observers in Syria has not put a stop to bloodshed UN says 400 people have been killed in past three weeks, on top of 5,000 killed since March

The UN chief demanded Sunday that Syria's president stop killing his own people and said the "old order" of one-man rule and family dynasties is over in the Middle East on a day when activists said 27 people died.

Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon, delivering the keynote address at a conference in Beirut on democracy in the Arab world, said the revolutions of the Arab Spring show people will no longer accept tyranny.

Ban has been highly critical of the Assad government's deadly crackdown on civilian protesters since the killings began — unlike the UN Security Council.

▶ Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon

That body is deeply divided. The U.S. and European nations demand strong condemnation and possible sanctions against Assad, but Russia and China are opposed.

Syria agreed last month to an Arab League plan that calls for a halt to the crackdown, the withdrawal of heavy weaponry from cities and the release of all political prisoners. About 200 Arab League observers are working in Syria to verify whether the government is abiding by its agreement to end the military crackdown on dissent.

The U.S. and many in the Syrian opposition say killings have accelerated.

"The killings still continue and still there are people arrested," said Arab League chief Nabil Elaraby in Bahrain. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Recession or not? Canadians think so

- Recession ended more than two years ago, economy growing: Economists
- Canadians are not unconvinced, as disposable incomes decline, jobs are lost

Is Canada in a recession? A majority of Canadians think so. But data and economists say otherwise.

The issue arose when pollster Michael Marzolini of Pollara reported to the Economic Club that 70 per cent of Canadians felt the R-word applied today, and a similar number thought the downturn would last at least another year.

The finding was immediately scoffed at by economists and policy-makers. Except for a brief skid in the second quarter of 2011, the economy has been growing steadily since 2009, they say. Hardly a day goes by when Prime Minister Stephen Harper and Finance Minister Jim Flaherty don't trumpet the fact that Canada has created more than 600,000 new jobs since the slump, much more than the 400,000 or so that were lost.

The technical definition of recession is when real, inflation-adjusted gross domestic product falls in back-to-back quarters. That happened in the fourth quarter of 2008 and the first two quarters of 2009.

But real GDP adjusts for inflation, not for population. Canada's economic performance looks different when population growth — about one per cent a year — is factored out. By that measure, Canada's per-capita GDP is still 1.4 per cent below what it was prior to the recession.

"To most people, real GDP doesn't really matter, what matters is per capita income," said Craig Alexander, chief economist with the TD Bank.

Canadians are not doing so well with net worth, either. Slightly higher, household net worth is below 2008 levels once inflation is taken into account, and income growth has also fallen below the rate of inflation.

CALGARY AT 10 CENTS A HOUSE

URBAN COMPASS

JANICE PASKEY
METRO CALGARY

The route pays 10 cents per house, and we do 720 houses.

Delivering newsletters. So here we are. Most of what I know about Calgary, I know from helping my son with this route.

I like it. Delivering mail is great exercise but has some risk.

Most mailboxes are up stairs of some sort: steep ones, concrete ones, icy ones, flimsy wood ones.

Then there's an array of mailboxes: some wide and big, others are too teensy to stuff the mail in, or you push the newsletter through a door slot to where a dog just about bites your hand off.

(Action item. We've since moved our own mailbox to ground level.)

And those 50-foot lots. Urban sprawl!

"Winter makes everything harder – and slower. We watch city crews fix a burst water main. We move with care. Some people shovel their walks; some don't."

We understand the city's hunger for density. The more spread out, the harder to provide services. We rejoice when one house has four mailboxes. Forty cents compared to 10.

Winter makes everything harder — and slower. We watch city crews fix a burst water main. We move with care. Some people shovel their walks; some don't.

The obvious rentals, and you just know them when you see them, have walks that aren't touched. Yet there are fancy duplexes where one person shovels only their half.

And developers? Not one under-construction house ever has a sidewalk that's shovelled. Ever. So we walk on the road, icy but less icy.

Turn the corner and there's a sign on a chainlink fence announcing a tree is worth $350. Except there's no tree. The developer cut it down. Scorched earth. Icy sidewalk.

Here's a school. Once public, it's now a charter school. The type where parents are up at midnight refreshing their computer to get their kid admitted to kindergarten. It's a symbol of the times for the inner city flush with school closures. The city and public school boards can't get together to make inner city density and schools work. So more schools open in the sprawling 'burbs in contrast to city density efforts.

Everywhere, ice is the enemy. It lurks under snow, and, boom, I'm down, hard on my hip. My son trips on a stair and hurts his arm. So if Canada Posties earn $20-plus an hour, more power to them. That's what you'll think when the fall is yours. The category "slips, trips and falls" is their leading cause of injury.

My son quits. "I'm a kid, it's winter and I don't want a job."

When the cheque comes, he owes me $30.

Sculptures of ice from river water

HARBIN, CHINA. Ice sculptors from nine countries competed in the 26th International Ice Sculpture Contest in China's northeastern city of Harbin. The event is part of an annual ice and snow festival, which sees its streets filled with pagodas made entirely of ice. METRO WORLD NEWS

Is Plummer on the Oscar track?

Canadian-born stage and screen legend Christopher Plummer won the supporting-actor Golden Globe for his role as an elderly widower who comes out as gay in the father-son drama Beginners.

Claiming the first prize of the night at Sunday's Globes may give 82-year-old Plummer the inside track for the same prize at next month's Academy Awards.

"I must praise my distinguished competitors, whom I have the greatest admiration and to whom I apologize most profusely," said Plummer, who added warm regards to Beginners star Scottish actor Ewan McGregor.

"I want to salute my partner, Ewan, that wily Scot, 'Ewan My Heart's in the Highlands' McGregor, that scene-stealing swine from the outer Hebrides."

Oscar consideration has been elusive for Plummer, who has been nominated for Hollywood's top honour only once in his 60-year career — two years ago, for the Leo Tolstoy drama The Last Station.

Ricky Gervais, who has ruffled feathers at past shows with sharp wisecracks aimed at Hollywood's elite and the Globes show itself, returned as host for the third-straight year.

He needled early winners, saying the show was running long and stars needed to keep their speeches short.

"You don't need to thank everyone you've ever met or members of your family, who have done nothing," Gervais said. "Just the main two. Your agent and God."

On the musical/comedy side, Michelle Williams won best actress for portraying Marilyn Monroe in what presenter and pal Seth Rogen jokingly called "the hilarious comedy My Week with Marilyn."

On the TV side, HBO's Enlightenment, which has struggled to gain viewers, got a boost from star Laura Dern's win for best actress in a comedy series, beating out popular favourites Tina Fey and Zooey Deschanel. PBS's runaway hit British import, Downton Abbey took home best miniseries or TV movie, while Kelsey Grammer surprised awards watchers by earning top drama series acting honours for the Starz political series Boss ahead of Bryan Cranston (Breaking Bad) and Steve Buscemi (Boardwalk Empire).

Contraband managed to steal the top slot at the weekend box office away from competitors. Make no mistake: Alcatraz is not Lost 2.0

Lost creator J.J. Abrams reunites with show alum Jorge Garcia for new drama about San Francisco's infamous prison

PHYLICIA TORREVILLAS
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Jorge Garcia, who played Hurley in the cult drama Lost, is heading back to another island with a different bunch of people in J.J. Abrams' new supernatural thriller Alcatraz.

This shot-in-Vancouver series revolves around more than 300 prisoners and guards who vanished from America's notorious Alcatraz prison in 1963 and start reappearing in the present day, wreaking havoc on the streets of San Francisco.

San Francisco cop Rebecca Madsen (Sarah Jones), Alcatraz expert and comic book enthusiast Dr. Diego "Doc" Soto (Garcia), federal agent Emerson Hauser (Sam Neill) and his sidekick Lucy Banerjee (Parminder Nagra) are forced to join forces to catch and bring to justice the supposed-to-be-dead bad guys.

For Garcia, joining the series was a no-brainer.

"When J.J. calls, with my history with him, I'll make myself available for sure," he says.

"I like what he does and the TV that he makes so I knew what I was going to be in. And then you read the script and it's like, 'Oh, sweet.'"

Jones (Big Love, Sons of Anarchy) says headlining her first series is a little overwhelming, but she says she tries not to put a lot of pressure on herself.

"I just try to treat it like other jobs I've had and do the best I can and hope that people like the character I'm playing as much as they've liked other female heroes that J.J. has brilliantly come up with," she says.

Garcia adds he's slowly getting used to working in Vancouver after shooting Lost in the lush locations of Hawaii.

But he admits he's a little bummed his former castaway-mates Daniel Dae Kim and Terry O'Quinn are having fun in the sun, shooting Hawaii Five-0.

"Whenever I watch Five-0 I'm a little bit jealous," Garcia admits.

"But only a little bit. Vancouver has its own green beauty, just like Hawaii. Of course, you have to pay for that with the rain. And it's a little bit colder.

"But I'm having fun. It's a fun show to be a part of. And it's cool living up here."

The series debuts with a two-hour premiere Monday at 8 p.m. ET/PT on Citytv and Fox. Alcatraz returns to its regular 9 p.m. ET/PT time-slot on Jan. 23.

Not a suicide attempt: Parents

Heather Locklear is safe at home after being hospitalized late last week for reportedly ingesting a life-threatening mix of booze and prescription pills, according to Us Weekly.

Locklear was reportedly chatty and smiling upon being discharged from Los Robles Hospital in Thousand Oaks, Calif.

Locklear's parents "wanted everybody to know that she's doing well, she's fine, she's not in any danger, she's healthy," a hospital spokeswoman says, adding that the actress' episode was not a suicide attempt. METRO

After a brief reconciliation, Sinéad O'Connor again split with husband Barry Herridge, she confirms on her blog.

The couple separated after 16 days of marriage before getting back together and then splitting again. In her post, O'Connor blames the media's scrutiny for the breakup.

"Slowly, since we were married, I became very ill as a result of what was done to my husband and I was unable to cope and became depressed," she writes.

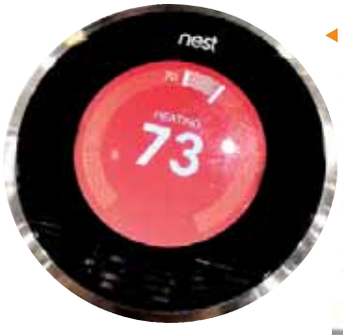
Tech-toy heaven

As the 2012 Consumer Electronics Show gets underway, Mike Yawney, Citytv's technology specialist, has scoured the floor for this year's must-have tech toys Here are a few of his picks



Nest: You have never seen a thermostat quite like this. Designed by Tony Fadell, the man who designed the original iPod, Nest is the world's first learning thermostat. Set the temperature in your home and over the course of a few days Nest will learn your climate preferences and start adjusting the temperature on its own. Since Nest is connected to your WiFi network, you have the ability to control the temperature in your home from just about anywhere using a smartphone or tablet. Nest will also tell you when you're saving energy to help you save money. You're going to need that cash, since the thermostat will set you back $249.

55-inch OLED TV: This isn't the first time OLED TVs have shown up at CES, but this is the first year they have reached such a large size. Last year, the ultra-thin televisions hit the 21-inch mark, this year we're finally starting to see 55-inch panels. The TVs are a mere four-mm thin, weigh roughly 7.5 KGs and are very energy efficient. On top of that, the display produces an incredible picture with some of the best colours you've ever seen. The only real drawback may be the price. A couple of years ago Sony sold an 11-inch model for $2,100 so you can expect these large panels will cost you a pretty penny when they hit Canada later this year.

Samsung Upgradeable TVs: Did you buy a TV for Christmas? The reality is that within a few months it will already be outdated. Samsung wants to make sure you don't have buyers remorse this year by allowing you to continuously upgrade your television. Many of its 2012 models will feature a slot on the rear where a special upgrade module can be inserted. This means modules with new software features, even faster processors can be purchased each year to keep your TV up to date. The updates will cost you, but at least you'll have the latest and greatest features on your TV.

Lighten up on roofing repair

If it's time to replace those old shingles you should consider cool-roof technology It costs the same

BEN KNIGHT
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Want a simple, effective way to make the world green? Turn your roof white.

White roofs reflect sunlight. Traditional dark roofing absorbs it, creating seething, inhumanly hot surface conditions. This wastes phenomenal amounts of energy, as most office building air conditioners are cooling taken from directly above the roof.

"If you have a white roof on your building, that reduces your air-conditioning use, increases comfort and improves the ambient air quality within the city," says Dr. Hashem Akbari, professor of environmental engineering at Concordia University in Montreal.

Every roof eventually needs to be serviced, or replaced. Doing the job with light-coloured materials is simple — and doesn't cost a penny extra.

"If you're building a new office tower, there's no difference in price between a white roof and a black roof," notes Jim Harris, management consultant and bestselling author of Blindsided.

"Same thing with shingles on a house. Pick a light colour, like a light gray, as close to white as you can get. There are really simple things that you can do that will make an incredible difference."

Yes, white roofs get dirty. But even so, they remain vastly more reflective than dark ones. Akbari notes that a typical Canadian house can offset 10 to 20 tons of CO2 emissions just by lightening the colour of its roof.

This simple idea has environmental implications that are — huge.

"If every roof in the world that is a dark colour were white, it would be equivalent to taking 600 million cars off the road for 22 years," Harris says. "That's the equivalent saving in carbon emissions that this would reduce. Those emissions come from burning electricity to air-condition air heated by dark roofs."

"This does not solve the problem of global warming," Akbari stresses, "but it is a measure that it is effective. It doesn't cost us anything. It doesn't have any negative effect. It saves us money, and we can afford to do it right now, while we are getting our act together to do something more serious."

And in a time when environmental issues get darker every day, it's a way we can all "lighten up."

White roofs

Cool-roof technology is not specifically covered by most government home-renovation grant programs.

Website But that's not an obstacle, because a white roof costs exactly the same as a black one. For more info on provincial grants, check www.alberta.ca.

Creative or conniving?

Experts explore link between creativity and dishonesty

Creativity has long been heralded as the force that drives society forward, responsible for life-saving medical breakthroughs and world-altering inventions like the lightbulb or the wheel. But a new study by a Harvard psychologist suggests this sought-after trait can come with a hefty price tag.

In The Dark Side of Creativity: Original Thinkers Can Be More Dishonest, co-author Francesca Gino says that creative thinkers are more likely to lie when faced with ethical dilemmas.

"Creativity increases what we call moral flexibility, which is the ability for people to come up with reasons why cheating is morally OK," said Gino.

"Organizations try to do their best to foster creativity in their employees and society advances because of innovation, so the idea is to put a little bit more focus on ethics and making sure that when creativity is fostered or encouraged we are also careful in trying to make sure that people are being ethical."

"I think we should be more aware of the risks and think about ways in which we can encourage creativity but also keep ethics in check."

FRANCESCA GINO, CO-AUTHOR OF IN THE DARK SIDE OF CREATIVITY

Gino, alongside Duke University's Dan Ariely, evaluated subjects' creativity using a continuous measure. The subjects were then asked to take a test in which they would be awarded more money if they answered certain questions dishonestly.

Using a total of five experiments, Gino and Ariely found that the more creative the test-taker, the more likely he or she was to cheat. This is because creative thinkers are better able to justify their dishonesty, the study suggests.

This held true not only when creativity was studied as a personality trait but also when responses were triggered by priming subjects to think creatively before taking the test.

"What we wanted to do with this paper is raise a red flag," said Gino. "I think we should be more aware of the risks and think about ways in which we can encourage creativity but also keep ethics in check."

The finding is especially problematic for colleges and universities, places where thinking outside the box is fostered and encouraged.

METRO CUSTOM PUBLISHING PRESENTED BY CANADIAN COUNCIL FOR TOBACCO CONTROL

NON-SMOKING WEEK

AVOID THIS RELATIONSHIP

DUMP YOUR 'PAL' THE CIGARETTE, IT'S SLOWLY KILLING YOU

This year, the Canadian Council for Tobacco Control wants to draw attention to the complex relationship Canadians who smoke have with their cigarettes. Most of us have experienced a relationship that we knew was not good for us, but found it difficult to walk away. This is particularly true for the millions of Canadians addicted to cigarettes — their "pal" is slowly killing them.

Tobacco remains the leading preventable cause of disease and death in Canada, killing 37,000 Canadians annually. For every premature death caused by tobacco, there are at least 20 people living with a tobacco-related illness.

Five million Canadians smoke and need our help to quit. Yet, as a society, we continue to stigmatize people who smoke and to blame them for their addiction (labelling it a "choice" or "habit"), conveniently neglecting the fact that tobacco is highly addictive and that cigarettes are engineered to exploit that fact. Furthermore, most adults who currently smoke started before the age of 17, and many even before the age of 15.

We must do more to help create and invest in environments that support "quitters" and ensures our youth never enter into this devastating and costly relationship. Tobacco is a relationship that never has a happy ending.

Giant upset in Green Bay

Manning throws three TDs, Giants stun Packers 37-20 in NFC divisional playoff game

37	20
GIANTS	PACKERS

▶ Giants QB Eli Manning drops back to pass against the Green Bay Packers on Sunday.

For Eli Manning and the New York Giants, Lambeau Field has become a familiar launching pad. After beating the Green Bay Packers at home for the second time in four years, they only hope this trip ends the same way — at the Super Bowl.

Manning threw three touchdown passes and the Giants shocked the Packers 37-20 in an NFC divisional playoff game Sunday. Manning threw for 330 yards, sending the Giants to San Francisco for the NFC championship game next Sunday night.

The Packers might have been the reigning Super Bowl champs, but the Giants might be the hottest team in the NFL.

"I think we're a dangerous team," Giants coach Tom Coughlin said. "I like where we are and how we're playing."

The Giants stunned the Packers with a touchdown off a long heave from Manning to Hakeem Nicks just before halftime, then knocked them out with a late touchdown off a turnover. Lambeau Field fell silent as the Giants swarmed the field in celebration, with a handful of New York fans chanting, "Let's go, Giants!"

The win came four years after the Giants beat a Brett Favre-led Packers team in the NFC title game. It wasn't nearly as frigid this time around, and the Packers' vulnerable defence seemed to be waiting to get sliced up.

Manning found six different receivers against a porous Packers defence. But Manning did the most damage with his throws to Nicks, who caught seven passes for 165 yards and two touchdowns.

Nicks' biggest play was a 66-yard touchdown catch in the first quarter. His score at the end of the half came on a 37-yard pass into the end zone with defenders all around.

"It was a big momentum play for them, but we were not deflated as a football team," Packers coach Mike McCarthy said.

The Giants defence also was able to defuse the big-play abilities of Aaron Rodgers and the Packers defence.

Rodgers was 26-of-46 for 264 yards, with two touchdowns and an interception. He also was the Packers' leading rusher with 66 yards on seven carries.

Things heading south in Miami

Tough times for Heat, with Wade ailing and the team on a three-game slide Miami had started season 8-1

Dwyane Wade is hurting. His team has lost three in a row. And the schedule is not going to provide any breaks any time soon.

The season's first official rough patch has arrived for the Miami Heat.

Some Heat players hit the practice court Sunday, Wade not among them. He was in the building, getting treatment on the right ankle he sprained in Friday's loss to Denver — one of three lower-body injuries he's dealing with of late, including a sore left foot and strained calf. There was no formal word on whether Wade would play Tuesday against San Antonio, but it seems the Heat are preparing to be without the 2006 NBA final MVP.

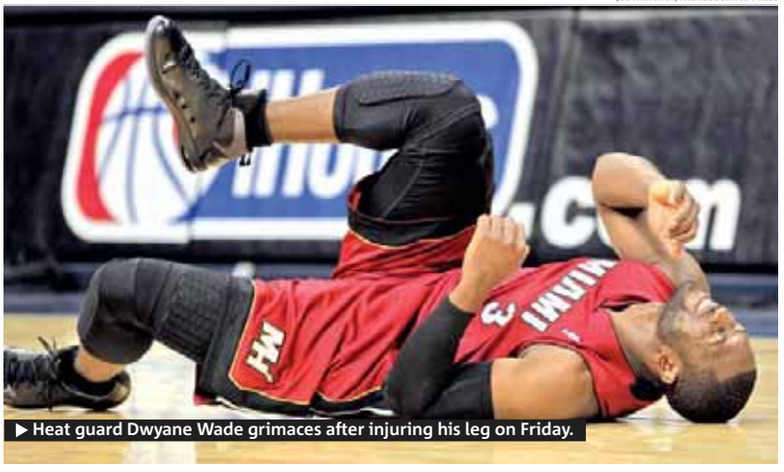
"We knew we were going to be faced with adverse situations. ... It's going to happen."
HEAT FORWARD CHRIS BOSH

"He needs to get healthy," forward Chris Bosh said. "That's the most important thing. He's been pushing it.

"He's been giving us everything he has. And unfortunately in the last game, he turned his ankle. But sometimes things happen. He probably needed to sit down and rest in the first place. Sometimes an injury will do that to you. It's a blessing in disguise. We need to be healthy when it's time to make a run in the playoffs.

"He needs to just chill out right now, get better and we'll hold it down until he can come back."

JOE MAHONEY/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS



▶ Heat guard Dwyane Wade grimaces after injuring his leg on Friday.

Wade was not on the practice court for Sunday's media availability. Coach Erik Spoelstra said there is no timetable for Wade's return, neither ruling him out for Tuesday nor suggesting he may be gone for a while.

"He's up walking around. He's working out right now downstairs," Spoelstra said. "But we're not going to put a timetable on when he comes back.

"Thankfully he's not in a cast or boot. He is walking around. So we'll see. We'll see how he responds each day and we'll go from there."

Wade was hurt late in the Denver loss, which capped a five-game road swing for Miami. The Heat were an NBA-best 8-1 after starting the trip with wins in Atlanta and New Jersey, then stumbled in overtime losses at Golden State and the Los Angeles Clippers, and closed the trip by allowing the Nuggets to shoot 55 per cent from the floor — Miami's worst showing in that department, by far, this season.

Familiar spot for New England

Brady guides productive Patriots offence into sixth AFC title game in 11 years ◐ QB had 5,235 yards this season

Next up to try and stop the seemingly unstoppable Tom Brady and the New England Patriots offence: the Baltimore Ravens.

Good luck.

How do you cover powerful Rob Gronkowski and versatile Aaron Hernandez and still have a defender left to deal with Wes Welker, the NFL's leading receiver?

Can you generate enough of a pass rush to foil Brady's quick release? If you don't, the master of analyzing defences and firing precise passes can stand comfortably in the pocket, calmly searching for his best option and the quickest route to the end zone.

And don't forget the ground game while you're focused on all those aerial stars.

Get ready, Ray Lewis and Terrell Suggs. Your dominant defence is about to get its toughest test.

Baltimore's reward for beating the Houston Texans 20-13 on Sunday is a date with the prolific Patriots, who got there with a 45-10 win Saturday night over the Denver Broncos that turned Tebowmania into a passing phenomenon while its central character, Tim Tebow, kept passing poorly.

The Ravens play at Foxborough on Sunday with a defence much better than the one the overwhelmed Broncos displayed. Baltimore's unit is the third-stingiest in the NFL, but it has never seen anything like this.

"The team revolves around him," Hernandez said. "When he comes to play, which he mostly does every game, then we're going to be on fire, and when he's ready, we're all ready."

Brady's performance rivals — and surpasses in some ways — his 2007 MVP season when he set an NFL record with 50 touchdown passes and established a team mark of 4,806 yards passing. This season, he beat that by more than 400 with 5,235, second-most in NFL history to Drew Brees' 5,476.

The Patriots went 18-0 in 2007, then lost the Super Bowl 17-14 to the New York Giants on a last-minute touchdown. Now they're 14-3.

One more win gets them to the championship game thanks to Brady's six scoring passes against Denver, tying the NFL record held by Daryle Lamonica and Steve Young. By halftime, Brady already had thrown for five touchdowns while Tebow had just three completions.

The victory helped ease the lingering pain of three straight playoffs losses — 33-14 to Baltimore and 28-21 to the New York Jets after the Super Bowl disappointment.

"You lose a few playoff games and it's a very bitter way to end the season and it sits on your mind for quite a long time," Brady said. "For us to come out and play the way we did, have a very solid performance in the most important game of the year, is very gratifying.

"From this point on, everyone will be focused on what we need to do to be better next week and, hopefully, come out and play for another championship."

Brady has been brilliant all season, starting with a total of 940 yards passing and seven touchdown throws in his first two games. And in his last nine — all wins — he's thrown for 25 scores and just three interceptions.

"We never look at the individual. We all try and do our job," defensive tackle Vince Wilfork said. "If (Brady) plays well, everyone else plays well.

"When he has an off day, we try to rally around him as a team to help Tom and the offence. We aren't going to get 20-30 points all the time."

Of course not. There was that one game, back Oct. 30, when they scored only 17 points.

Brady's six scoring passes Saturday matched his career high. He completed 26-of-34 passes for 363 yards, a team record for a post-season game. He wasn't sacked, hardly even pressured, all game.

"That's Tom, week in and week out," running back BenJarvus Green-Ellis said, "so I don't think anyone else in this locker-room or in this country would expect anything else from him."

It wasn't always that promising.

The Patriots were just 5-3 and had lost two consecutive games for just the third time in nine seasons. Their defence, last in the league at the time, was getting pushed around.

It was time for Brady's bunch to turn things around.

They beat the Jets in New York 37-16 to start the nine-game winning streak. In three of the last four games, they've scored more than 41 points. The only other time that happened since Brady arrived in 2000 was in 2007 when they did it in three consecutive games and four of five.

That team had Randy Moss, the deep threat who caught an NFL-record 23 touchdowns.

This one has Gronkowski and Hernandez, the short, middle and deep targets who combined for 24 in the regular season and, in just one playoff game, another four.

"These two are changing the game," guard Brian Waters said. "If you decide to take away one, that opens things up for the other.

"You add the fact that we have receiving threats and some good guys at the running back position. It limits the things you can do defensively as far as trying to take one person out of the game. That's something that we are able to take advantage of."
